PREFACE.

So long ago as the end of the eighteenth century, when Mr. Weatherby first began to collect records for a General Stud-book, destined to become such a unique and valuable history of the thoroughbred horse, certain animals were debarred admission to its pages. Either their pedigree could not be traced sufficiently far back to satisfy Mr. Weatherby that they were entitled to rank as thoroughbred animals, or they were contaminated by some cross, or crosses, of impure blood.

Unfortunately during the latter half of last century, many animals of foreign origin, accepted in the stud-books of their own countries, found admission to the General Stud-book, though their pedigrees could not, in many cases, be satisfactorily traced back to thoroughbred stock exported from England. These animals were frequently far less thoroughbred than many of our native stocks racing under the stigma of "h-b." and for which, in many cases, recognition as thoroughbreds had long been strenuously demanded and refused.

This abuse becoming apparent, in order to make certain for the future that no animal of short, or questionable descent, should gain admission into the Stud-book, yet that those virtually thoroughbred should be no longer excluded, Messrs. Weatherby, in 1901, after taking council with the Stewards of the Jockey Club, issued the following notice to breeders :—

"Any animal claiming admission should be able to prove "satisfactorily some eight or nine crosses of pure blood, to
"trace back for at least a century, and to shew such performance of its immediate family on the Turf as to warrant the "belief in the purity of its blood."

Messrs. Weatherby announced that all imported horses and mares included in Vol. XIX. had been submitted to this test.

Subsequently, on further consideration, they were of the opinion that this new amelioration of the conditions of entry might impair the purity of the breed, and that certain animals might thereby gain admittance which it had always been the intention (even if not at all times strictly carried out) of the editors to exclude.

Consequently in the preface to Vol. XXI. an announcement was made cancelling the notice that had been issued some eight years earlier, and henceforth Messrs. Weatherby informed subscribers that :—

"Since the last volume of the Stud-book was published,
"they have had cause to consider the advisability of admitting
"into the Stud-book horses or mares which cannot be traced
"to a thoroughbred root, but which fulfilled the requirements
"given in the preface to Vol. XIX. They have decided in "the interests of the English Stud-book no horse or mare
"can be admitted unless it traces to a strain already accepted
"in the earlier volumes of the book."

The notice in Vol. XIX. (1901) was consequently rescinded, and Messrs. Weatherby's resolution was endorsed by the Stewards of the Jockey Club

But an even more drastic regulation was shortly considered necessary as a final safeguard. During last year (1913) at the instance of Lord Villiers, the Editors of the Stud-book agreed to substitute for their former notice the following announcement, which appeared in the volume (XXII.) recently issued :—

“ They (the Editors) have decided that, in the interests
“ of the English Stud-book, no horse or mare can, after this “ date, be considered as eligible for admission unless it can be “ traced without flaw on both sire's and dam's side of its “ pedigree to horses and mares themselves already accepted
“ in the earlier volumes of the book.”

Consequently though the stud-book is apparently not to be purged of its existing impurities by expunging animals who never ought to have gained entry, henceforth no horse or mare whose pedigree cannot be satisfactorily traced at all points, can ever hope for admission.

The action of Messrs. Weatherby, and the Stewards of the Jockey Club met with the hearty approval of all breeders, both at home and abroad, it being universally agreed it was of paramount importance that the pages of the English Stud-book could not be too jealously safeguarded, and that every precaution should be taken to preserve the high character of the book in its integrity.

The Stud-book being thus hermetically closed to all but those animals to whose admission there could be no possible objection, it seemed necessary to attempt a Stud-book, or Register, for the many horses now running on the Turf who are denied admission, and whose descendants can henceforth never hope to be included in its pages.

It appeared in every way undesirable that so many native-bred animals should be engaged in racing, of whose pedigrees and antecedents little if anything is known. Each year that the publication of such a register was delayed, the more difficult it would become, and in many instances tradition and errors would usurp the place of genuine records.

Only those who have been at the trouble to collect returns of this kind can have any conception of the difficulty of obtaining authentic information. The mating and produce of mares, if not put in writing at the moment, speedily becomes a matter of guess-work, and pedigrees thus obtained are worse than useless.

The Compiler is painfully aware of the many mistakes and omissions inseparable from a work of this nature. Indeed it would have been quite impossible to have attempted such a Register had not it been foreseen that the necessity for such a work would eventually arise, and consequently records of the principal “ h-b ” families have been diligently collected for many years, and every care has been exercised to ensure their accuracy, as far as is possible.

That such a Stud-book was required was in fact fully recognised more than fifty years ago by so distinguished a member of the Jockey Club as the late Admiral Rous. Yet from that date to the present time, no effort has been made to record the history of half-bred horses running on the Turf.

Writing on the English Race-horse in 1860 the Admiral says :—

“ Between 1820 and 1835 large prizes were given to be run
 “ for by horses not thoroughbred. These premiums not “ only brought to light many good half-breds, but it induced “ persons of indifferent principles to substitute thoroughbred
 “ foals for half-bred stock, and I am satisfied that many “ nominal half-bred horses have run in public just as well bred
 “ as Eclipse. The difficulty of this question is augmented
 “ every year. A half-bred horse has been second for the Derby.
 “ The stock from good nominal half-bred horses increases,
 “ and eventually they must find a place in the annals of the “ Stud-book.

The urgent need of such a publication at the present time was emphasised by the early success of Prospector as a sire of race-horses. It was apparent that a horse of his singularly fine appearance, and excellent performances on the Turf, would be in request by breeders, even under the disadvantage that his stock could not be entered in the Stud-book. The merit of his first crop of foals only served to advance the horse in public favour, and consequently there are now a large number of animals by him either running, or shortly to begin their Turf career, whose names will be looked for in vain in the General Stud-book. Further Shogun, another brilliant racehorse, is, like Prospector, a son of Kendal Belle, and will doubtless shortly become another popular public stallion recruited from the ranks of un-registered horses.

It should always be remembered that an animal running as “ h-b ” is not by any means necessarily a half-bred, it merely means that the pedigree cannot be traced to its source. Very many of the horses and mares in this volume are in reality as thoroughbred as any of those entered in the General Stud-book, only the proofs of the purity of their ancestry are not forthcoming. The Compiler is cognisant of a very large number of horses, not only on the Turf, but used as hunters, and for other purposes, which are thoroughbred, but which have never been registered.

In some cases, when drafted from studs, the identity of mares is destroyed, and the animals are purposely sold without their pedigrees; in many other instances the carelessness of their owners alone is responsible for their omission from the General Stud-book.

It seemed therefore expedient to issue a Stud-Book for these horses and mares at the present time, before their numbers should preclude the attempt. It is moreover not generally recognised to what extent unregistered animals are running at the present day, though since the rule was passed, to prevent the ever-increasing incentive to fraud, that no allowance of weight should be made to “ h-b. ” horses, the inducement to own and run such animals as “ half-breds ” no longer exists. During last season no fewer than one hundred and sixty-six “ half-bred ” horses have run on the flat, and forty-six have actually won races.

Under more fortuitous circumstances it is far from improbable that Shogun, a “ half-bred ” horse, might have won the ill-starred Derby of last year, as he was notoriously the principal sufferer in the race. It will further be seen in the pages of this stud-book that "half-breds" have already run second for the Derby no less than three times, and once also for the Oaks, not to mention many other important races. That no public record of the pedigrees of such horses should exist appears a matter of some moment, and a probable source of mis-representation hereafter.

If any further proof for the necessity for such a record need be offered, it will be found on examination of the official Calendars that, on several occasions, two animals with identical pedigrees, and the same age, have been running the same year, shewing that one or the other must have been incorrectly described either as to age, or pedigree, or both. In one case, at least, a horse, the winner of an important steeplechase, must have been an entirely different animal to what he purported to be, and this probably is not an isolated instance of the kind.

The publication of this work may, it is hoped, be the means of enabling owners of some un-registered animals to connect them with families apparently either extinct or forgotten at the present day, and thus afford them the means of tracing back their pedigrees to the earliest records of such strains.

A few other families should have been included in this book, but at present the records obtainable of them are somewhat incomplete. It has therefore been thought expedient to defer their publication till the next edition, when possibly, with the kind co-operation of those interested, additional particulars may be forthcoming.

Owners and breeders will, perhaps, be good enough to correct any errors they may observe in the records of their animals, and the Compiler will be grateful for any additions and suggestions, in the hope that a future volume may be more complete than the present one.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

In order to shew the relationship existing between the various animals in this stud-book, they have been separated into families, each bearing the name of one of its most distinguished members. It was thought that this arrangement would be found more useful than if the mares were given in alphabetical order, besides having the advantage of shewing the measure of success attained by each family. An index to the whole is also provided, which will afford a ready means of reference to any particular horse or mare.

No family has been included whose members have not either won important races, or collectively a sufficient sum in stakes to warrant their admission.

Vol. IX. p. 441. "It has always been considered doubtful if Duc-an-Dhurras is thoroughbred, but as several of his foals appear in the preceding pages, and we have not ventured to call them half-bred, we think it better to give the pedigree of this horse as far as it is known."

Vol. XVI. p. 650. "Mayboy . . . this horse who occurs frequently as a sire in Ireland, and is sometimes rather unsafely called half-bred, cannot be traced further. He is of the same blood as Duc-an-Dhurras."

MAYBOY FAMILY.

Mr. Joseph Osborne ("Beacon") gives the following particulars as to this family :—

"Spartacus was bred by the Right Hon. Denis Bowes Daly (breeder of Bob Booty, and many other horses celebrated on the Irish Turf), and was by Swordsman, out of Mrs. Dawdle (not in the Stud-book) by Master Bagot (not the well-known grey horse of that name), his dam, Twilight by Lenox (full brother to Golden Locks) by Delpini.

Swordsman, like Buffer, Master Robert, and many other celebrities, was bred by Mr. Whaley, of Whaley Abbey, Co. Wicklow. He won seven King's Plates, besides other races, at the Curragh, where his sire, the celebrated Prizefighter (son of Florizel and Promise by Snap) after winning many races in England, also won the Lord Lieutenant's Plate and other races in 1792, having been purchased by Mr. Cooke, of Cookesborough, the preceeding year, and brought into Ireland, where he was a famous stallion.

The dam of Swordsman was Zara (in the stud of Mr. Whaley), by Eclipse, dam by Squirrel, and grand-dam sister to Ancaster by Blank, but the Stud-book is silent as to whether she had any other produce besides Swordsman. Spartacus ran well, but unsuccessfully, in Mr. Denis Bowes Daly's colours, and was then sold to Mr. Faulkner, of Co. Carlow, for whom he won a few races, and subsequently begat many famous hunters in the garden county of Ireland, besides Vanity, from whose union with Harkaway came Luna, whose daughter Larkaway, by Royal Oak Day (one of the most grandly bred horses in the Stud-book) was the dam of May Day.

So there is no stain in either Clorane, Duc-an-Dhurras, nor Mayboy in this connection. Nor is there likely to have been any on the side of Vanity's dam, although the Stud-book contains no more about her than that her dam was by Whitenose, and grand-dam by Roseden.

Both of these had in them the bluest of blue blood, and Whitenose was one of the best runners of his day. Bred by Earl FitzWilliam, he was by Don Quixote—Cecilia by Sir Peter—Termagant by Tantrum, etc., and after winning several races in England, he was purchased by Colonel Bruen (the same gentleman that gave the Duke of Grafton 2,000 gs. for Whalebone's full sister, with whom he won the Gold Cup at the Curragh twice successively), in whose colours he won in Ireland no fewer than thirteen races.

At the stud his career must have been a short one, as he does not appear to have been advertised, nor does his name appear as a sire in any of the Produce races closing at this period, so this, "the Whitenose mare," was probably his only progeny. Nor did my search among the Calendars enable me to find the name of her breeder, but Roseden, the sire of her dam, is to be found largely advertised. Bred by a Mr. Idleston, for whom he won two races in England, and got by Archduke (son of Sir Peter and sister to Achilles, by Eclipse), his dam by Drone, out of Contessina by Young Marske, out of Tuberoze by Herod, he was brought into Ireland by Sir James Newcomen, and stood at his seat, Carrickglass, Co. Longford."

The Gallopig Queen
Family.

GALLOPING QUEEN FAMILY.

This excellent family of racehorses, who have had such a successful career on the Turf, mainly originated with the mare Full Cry, bought by Lord Feversham as described in the following letter to the Compiler :—

DUNCOMBE PARK,

HELMSLEY, YORKS.

November 5th, 1904.

Pray excuse me for not writing sooner in acknowledgment of your letter, and its enclosure, and I hope you will accept my congratulations upon the care and correctness of your returns of the "Queen of the Dale" family. I have, in accordance with your wish, made one or two small alterations and additions. If I could remember them, I think I might have added one or two animals as the produce of both Full Cry and her daughter Queen of Diamonds, but as they were not winners, their omission probably is of no great consequence.

The way I came into possession of the family was thus : There was a sale of bloodstock about the year 1861 or 1862, near Reading. In the catalogue the pedigree of a black mare, I think by Sweetmeat, struck me as being a very good one, and I went to the sale. The mare, whose name I think was Black Attar, went for a higher price than I cared to give, but I was struck by a strong, useful-looking bay mare on short legs, but wide and roomy. This was Full Cry, by the famous Sir Tatton Sykes, a name we love in Yorkshire. I thought, "This is good enough for me," with the Velocipede cross, Valparaiso's sire, so I bought the mare for a moderate price, and I am very pleased I did, as I had always heard that old John Scott said that Velocipede was the best horse he ever trained.

I determined to breed from another strain of that horse, so sent Full Cry to his son, King of Trumps, and to his great-grandson, Cape Flyaway. The result has not been unsuccessful on the whole.

I should like to add that I tried to trace the pedigree further back, but never could get beyond Maggie Lauder by Dinmont, whom old Tom Dawson, the famous trainer at Middleham, said he remembered seeing run in Scotland. I may mention that Valparaiso was out of the dam of Matilda, winner of the Leger.

(Signed) FEVERSHAM.

RED RIBBONS.

A Chestnut Mare, bred by Mr. G. Wilson in 1839, got by Valparaiso, out of Maggie Lauder by Dinmont.

RED RIBBONS ran unplaced in a Farmers' Plate at Kelso, run in heats, at 3 years old.

- 1847. Ch. c. Old Claret by William le Gros (son of Velocipede).
Won 1 race, value £44.

- 1857. Ch. f. Lincoln's Inn by Knight of Avenel. [page 38].

- 1859. Ch. f. by Knight of Avenel.

Note.—RED RIBBONS was entered in the first edition of Vol. VIII. of the General Stud-book, but was expunged from the subsequent edition, which contains the following notice :—

“ RED RIBBONS, by Valparaiso, out of Maggie Lauder by Dinmont, who appeared in the earlier edition of this volume, is now omitted, as on investigation the pedigree of Maggie Lauder cannot be traced.”

RED RIBBONS was owned by Mr. Hope Johnstone up to 1854, when she became the property of Mr. Richards, and continued in his possession for three years, when she was sold to Mr. Thomas Dawson, of Tupgill, Middleham, Yorks, in whose stud she died in December, 1859.

RED RIBBONS probably gained admission to the Stud-book in the first instance through some confusion which arose between her and an un-named chestnut mare (1839) by Valparaiso, out of Helen Mar (Vol. VIII. p. 249).

It is, moreover, probable that Old Claret was out of the above Valparaiso mare, and not out of Red Ribbons, though so returned in the Stud-book.

VALPARAISO, ch. 1831, by Velocipede, out of Juliana by Gohanna.

Sent to America, 1839.

The Royal George
Family.

ROYAL GEORGE FAMILY.

The following account of this family is taken from an article in "Baily's Magazine" of November, 1883 :—

" . . . Then if we want another type of a steeplechase horse, where need we look further than The Colonel, another double winner at Liverpool, and as genuine and stout a horse as ever was foaled. No horse reminds me so much of The Colonel as Barcaldine does. The former was perhaps wanting in the length and speed of the great Irishman, but once fairly on his legs (he was a bad beginner) I am not at all sure that a great cup or the Alexandra Plate would not have been within his compass in the present day. He never seemed to be pumped out, and many times when only half trained he made moderate horses stand still at the finish. Very little is generally known of The Colonel's breeding, and, in the hope of being pardoned for a digression, I will give your readers, dear Baily, some curious facts connected with his breeding for the truth of which I can vouch, and which I do not think have ever seen the light of print before.

About fifty years ago a Mr. Hall, a solicitor at Shrewsbury, obtained an interest in a small farm on the confines of South Shropshire, called the Vron. He was a sportsman, and there soon arrived at this farm four or five thoroughbred mares and some game fowls. To look after these was hired a man from Knighton, named Benjamin Jones, or, as he was better known, 'The Flying Ben.' A queer fellow was this Flying Ben, and up to all sorts of tricks, and one night he arrived at the farm of a relation of his close to Knighton, called Pampunton, with a new-born filly foal in a cart, which he put on a half-bred mare called Treacle, and left it in exchange for a colt of his brother-in-law's that Treacle had just foaled. The secret of this exchange was well kept, and in due time this filly came into the possession of a Mr. John Davies, a relation of Jones', and who was a big blustering yeoman that aspired to a bit of racing. The reason for Flying Ben's proceedings became evident when it is remembered that in those days the principal stake at Knighton, the Radnorshire Stakes, was for half-bred horses, and of course Mr. Davies' filly, which he called Modesty, was to all intents and purposes the foal of Treacle, and half-bred.

" He sent her at three-years-old with a boy from Knighton to old Oseland's, at Richard's Castle, to be trained for this race, and bragged of what he was going to do with her so much that it culminated in a quarrel at the Chandos Arms Hotel. On that occasion a sportsman, now more than middle-aged, and hailing from near Whitechurch in Shropshire, then a mere stripling, took the shine completely out of Squire Davies, as he was called, by his superior science and generalship. The best-laid plans of men, however, sometimes fail. Modesty's owner had the brag taken out of him, and the filly ran away with the boy at exercise, and cut herself all to pieces, so there was an end of her racing career. Squire Davies, however, to do him justice, shewed considerable pluck and acumen in breeding when he put Modesty to the Stud.

Her first produce was a bay horse called Alexander, that never ran; the next, Greenfinch, was a very useful horse, and was purchased by Mr. R. Green, now *Sir Richard Green Price, and by him sold to Mr. R. D. Gough, for whom he won several races, running second for the Somersetshire Stakes—a race of some importance in those days. She then threw Princess of Wales by Bran, a useful mare over local courses. Then came Minerva by Faugh-a-Ballagh, a really good mare, that only lost the Liverpool Steeplechase by catching her leg in the last hurdle, which was loose, and she dragged it along the ground for several yards, letting up the beaten Freetrader, and allowing him to win by half a length. This was a crushing blow to Squire Davies' racing exploits, which culminated soon after in the death of Minerva, in the Warwick Steeplechase, I think.

"Princess of Wales was sold to Fog Rowlands with a filly at her side by Orlando—it is not generally known that Orlando ever honoured a half-bred mare with his smiles—which turned out to be the flying Butterfly, owned by Mr. Mather, and the dam of Farfalla, and the grand-dam of a whole bevy of speedy ones that the Stud-book disdains to honour with places in its pages. Before, however, Princess of Wales quitted Radnorshire, she left behind her another filly, called Boadicea, by Faugh-a-Ballagh, I think. She passed into the possession of the late Mr. John Weyman, of Purslow, a good judge of breeding and hunting stock, and who liked a flutter with a good half-bred one in the local plates. Boadicea, however, was a soft, 'good for very little' brute, and scarcely won him a race. Her first venture, however, at the stud, amply atoned for her previous career. She went to Eyke's, at Stanton, to be put to Knight of Kars, where also stood the poor old blind Sweetmeat. Judges of horseflesh always point to The Colonel as a Sweetmeat horse, but it is treason to say so even now. Nevertheless the curious doubt thrown on his pedigree here is certainly made still more curious by the undoubted fraud that ushered in the days of his grand-dam Modesty. I should have said the thoroughbred mares belonging to Mr. Hall at the Vron, from one of which Modesty sprung, were put that year to Master Henry and Manfred, so that the real blood that ran in her veins was anything but plebeian.

"I shall never forget The Colonel being brought to run as a two-year-old at Hereford, when scarcely out of his breaking tackle, when he behaved like a gentleman, and did not disgrace himself. As a three-year-old he took the shine out of something of Tom Parr's for the Radnorshire Stakes, 1½ miles, at Knighton, and beat the Duke of Beaufort's Ischia at Brecon. He then carried his owner hunting for two seasons, picking up his corn in the Spring in local events. A safer, steadier jumper in the hunting field was never seen, and moreover he was always quiet and temperate, and a lover of hounds. It was only when poor George Stevens chanced to bestride him one day that he was struck with his firmness in galloping and persuaded the fidus achates of the stable, the late Mathew Evans, to let him have a fly at a higher game, with the result we all know:

"A proud man would he feel now who could breed another horse like The Colonel, and yet if he did, we would wish him a fairer field on which to shew his prowess than the 'obstacle' arenas of the present day. . . ."

"BORDERER."

Note.—The above account was evidently written from memory, and though the point of the story as to the changling Modesty is possibly correct, several of the details are not quite in accordance with fact. Thus, it would appear that Modesty never started, whereas it will be seen that she contested both heats for the Radnorshire Stakes when 3-years-old. Also, if Modesty and the un-named Pilgarlick mare were identical, she can scarcely have produced a foal before Gorsebush, in 1834. In any case, Gorsebush was foaled previous to Greenfinch, who "Borderer" states was her second foal, giving Alexander as her first. Again, Minerva was not out of Modesty, but out of her daughter, Princess of Wales. The writer also is probably in error when he says that the Orlando foal at foot of Princess of Wales was Butterfly. It may have been Graziella, who carried Lord Strathmore's colours in the only race for which she ran, but Butterfly appears to have remained the property of her breeder, Mr. Davies, until June, 1854, when she won as Mr. Jones', and later as Mr. Mather's. Neither had Boadicea quite such bad form as "Borderer" attributes to her, as she won seven races, although they were not for very substantial stakes.

The Colonel was not the result of her first visit to Knight of Kars, as stated. She threw a filly foal in the previous year, afterwards called Lady Port, who turned out to be of little merit. The Colonel had run twice on successive days at Wolverhampton, a month before running for the Herefordshire race, in which he finished last of three, eight lengths behind the winner, so can hardly have then given much proof of his future excellence. He beat Ischia, as stated, at 3-years-old (though she beat him two days later, when giving The Colonel 21 lbs.), but did not take part in the Radnorshire Stakes that year, though he won the race the following season, beating the favourite, Mr. T. Parr's Clarice, by five lengths.

It may be of interest to note that at the time he sired Butterfly, Orlando was advertised to cover half-bred mares at five guineas.

MODESTY.

A Bay Mare, bred in Wales in 1827, got by Pilgarlick.*
 MODESTY finished sixth and fourth respectively in two heats for the Radnorshire Stakes at Knighton, "for horses not thoroughbred," in 1830. The following year an un-named bay filly by Pilgarlick, 4 years, in the same ownership, which was probably Modesty, finished second in both heats for the Radnorshire Stakes, and also was placed first, third, and fourth for three heats in the Members' Plate at Bishop's Castle (Shropshire). In 1832 the same mare was distanced in a race at Knighton, and the next day ran first, second, and third, in heats, for the Hunters' Stakes, carrying 10st. 5lbs.

Birdhill Family.

BIRDHILL FAMILY.

Copy of a letter written by Pickering, a well-known sporting character in Yorkshire, to Lord Middleton, in reply to an enquiry from him as to the history of "Queen Bee," the foundation of the Birdsall branch of this family.

May 27th, 1886.

"In answer to your's about Birdhill, this was a horse bred by old Tom Dawson, of Middleham, was 2 years old in 1861, and won four times as a 2-year-old, and was claimed by the Duke of Beaufort in his third win; he was by Birdcatcher, out of Polly Johnson's dam. Polly Johnson was a first-rate race-horse, bay, by Malcolm, out of a mare by Melbourne, half-bred, a famous mare of Tom Dawson's, winner of races. Birdhill won seven times in 1862, and once in 1863.

"Your Lordship's mare, Queen Bee, or rather the mare dam of Beeswing, h.b., I bought for your father. She was by Newminster out of Birdhill's dam.

"I had an open commission from your Lordship's father to buy, at that time, the best half-bred blood I could, as Half-bred Stakes for Hunters were for local competition, Sir George Cholmley competing at Malton, Thirsk, Catterick, York, and Scarborough.

"The offspring of this Polly Johnson's and Birdhill's dam are still running at Newmarket, and are as good race-horses as any. My memory tells me that John Dawson, senr., has the breed running now, and they are good horses, both on the flat and over country.

"Queen Bee was a beautiful mare, and could win races too. I bought her of J. Nightingall, who married an I'Anson.

"(Signed) S. PICKERING."

[The above letter is inserted to shew that there was an evident inducement in former days to obtain race-horses, with a stain—real or supposed—in their pedigrees, in order to win local races, which were mainly confined to "half-bred hunters," and keenly contested at many of the Midland and North-country meetings].

"BIRDHILL'S DAM."

The
New Oswestry
Family.

NEW OSWESTRY FAMILY.

After the lapse of nearly seventy years some doubt exists as to the exact pedigree of Mrs. Taft. Mr. John Osborne, the famous jockey, to whom the Priam mare was given by his god-father, Mr. John Taft (a tenant of Lord Chesterfield's), is of the opinion that this Priam mare was the dam of the Colwick mare, who in turn bred Mrs. Taft. But it would appear from the entry of the grey colt Derby, in the Racing Calendar of 1852, that his dam and Mrs. Taft's dam were half-sisters, and not mother and daughter. From the information now available, this latter pedigree would appear to be the more probable, but Mr. Osborne is certain that the particulars given him at the time (1850) were correct, and they have therefore been adopted in the following records, subject to this remark.

Mr. Osborne further states that the grey mare by Priam was bred by Mr. Taft, and that he had always understood that this breed had been in the possession of the Taft family continuously from the time of the Exmoor pony mare, the foundation of the line.

In an article in the Live Stock Journal of July 14th, 1893, Sir Richard Green Price gave the following particulars concerning New Oswestry :—

The stain of blood, as is generally known, comes from Mrs. Taft, which, nevertheless, was good enough to win the Cesarewitch. I make no apology for placing New Oswestry as the best type of Hunter sire within our recollection, for not only was he a remarkable horse himself—so good, indeed, that to quote the words recently written by a *man who knew him well, and rode him in most of his races, "There is no doubt but that he was the best horse of his time, and there is little doubt but that he could have won the Liverpool Grand National, Queen's Plates, and Cesarowitch the same year." As it was, he belonged to one of the most eccentric of men, by trade a butcher, who preferred to run him about at all the little meetings for small stakes, rather than give him the chance he deserved . . . He was a grand horse to look over, a bay, with power enough to carry any reasonable weight to hounds, and with the best of tempers. His limbs must have been of cast iron to carry him through the host of encounters (he won †fifty races) in which he took part, and was never known to fall. As a sire it may safely be said that he never got a bad one, and no horse had a worse chance : but whether the mare was small or big, light or coarse, it made little difference—the young New Oswestry's were either good hunters or steeplechasers. Of the latter class I have only to point to St. Galmier or Savoyard, as specimens, while of hunters their name is legion."

* Colonel Charles Rivers Bulkeley ("Mr. Charles.")

† Some of these presumably were at unrecognised meetings.

This Warlike mare was bought by Mr. George Keays, of Newtown, Nenagh, Co. Tipperary, at a farm sale at Borrisokane, for fifty shillings, together with her colt foal by William the Conqueror. It is stated that the foal she then had at foot was Rufus, and that she was in-foal with Merlin, and that Captain Montgomery subsequently bought both these horses from Mr. Keays, one being 4 years old and the other 3 years. When Rufus ran in 1870, he was entered as "out of Merlin's dam," but no horse called Merlin whose description agrees with these particulars can be traced as having run, so he is not included in the above list of this mare's produce.

"SISTER TO RUFUS," No. 2.

Believed to be the Bay Mare, "CONSTANCE," bred by Mr. G. Keays in 1873, got by William the Conqueror, out of Rufus' dam. by Warlike.

[Some doubt exists as to the identity of this mare. Mr. N. Keays, son of the late Mr. G. Keays, states that his father bred from Constance, and entered her produce merely as "out of Sister to Rufus," so is uncertain whether she was the mare called "No. 2" above, or her sister, "No. 1," on page 207. The former appears to be the more probable].

Produce bred by Mr. G. Keays, Newtown, Nenagh, Co. Tipperary.

Note.—It has been found impossible to separate exactly the produce of these two "Sisters to Rufus." Mr. N. Keays remembers certain animals to have been out of a particular mare, but is doubtful as to others. Care has been exercised, and every possible effort made to give an accurate return of this family, but owing to the founder of it, the late Mr. George Keays, having owned no less than four own sisters to Rufus, of whom, at any rate, three bred foals by Ireland Yet, it is practically impossible to record every detail correctly, more especially as a number of his fillies were un-named, and usually unbroken.

Moreover, in two instances at least, after the success of Wild Man from Borneo, animals were sold with pedigrees connecting them with this family, which on investigation proved to be false, and thus the compilation of authentic records of this particular breed have been found exceptionally difficult.

The Compiler has been unable to satisfactorily establish that Freedom, the Victor filly, and Beggarman were out of "Sister to Rufus" No. 1, or that the foals recorded above from 1890 to 1896, were the produce of Sister No. 2, but they are probably, more or less, correctly given.

The Hexgrave Family.

HEXGRAVE FAMILY.

The following particulars of this family are given by "The Druid" in Saddle and Sirloin, page 242 (date 1869):—

Sir George Cholmley divides his "Cholmley chestnuts" between Boynton, Howsham, and Newton. Hubert's paddocks are at the first-named place, and Angelus is the guardian angel of the last. For many years Sir George did not keep a sire, but used Sir Tatton's. When they were at Doncaster together one year, Sir George recommended Womersley to his old friend, and hence that Irish Birdcatcher chestnut went to Sledmere for a season. Codrington (who got his stock with rare shoulders and pretty little heads) was by him, and was one of those which William Day passed over, when he had choice of "all the sort." Sir George declared that he had passed the best, and offered 40 guineas to have his pick of the draft. Codrington lamed himself off a mare, and was ultimately sold to Vienna. Record by Emilius was another purchase; and Orpheus, who is still on the wolds at Kilham, cost 40 guineas at Tattersall's. Angelus was by him from Nutmeg, a Nassau Stakes winner of Lord Exeter's, which was purchased at Doncaster. He ran five times as a two-year-old, and was second to Little Stag at Beverley. At one time he was rather talked of for the St. Leger, but he was a large, fat colt, and therefore excessively difficult to prepare.

Sir George has about twenty thoroughbred and ten half-bred mares; and winners of the Great National Steeplechase and Hunters Stakes are his speciality. The park seems full of matrons with chestnut Angelus and brown Hubert foals. Among the mares we note Barnacles, the dam of Highflyer the steeplechaser; Whitefeet, of the Hexgrave family; Miss Taylor, by Orpheus, the dam of Belinda; and *Hexgrave's dam, a Sleight of Hand mare, with white spots round the eyes.

There are three cups at Newton, won respectively by Adonis, The Don, and Peep o' Day Boy; and Mr. Thomson, Mr. Boynton, and Mr. Spence have been in the black, yellow sleeves, and black cap.

Angelus has won three Yorkshire prizes in succession, and during 1868 with the Royal in aid, he made 140 guineas in the show-yards. Bob Brignall was in great force as he opened door after door, and told his chestnuts' story. There stood the five-year-old Julius, who never ran, but won in shows; and Belinda, a small Orpheus hack, which has won as a lady's horse both at Wetherby and Scarborough and London, but Don John was the crack of the stable. His head is a little plain, but his quarters are beautiful, and taking him throughout, we have seen few three-year-old hunters like him. As a four-year-old he beat the almost invincible Topstall, and all the hunters in the yard for the Royal Gold Medal at Manchester. He is by Angelus, from Whitefeet by Codrington.

* Note.—This refers to Donna, the dam of the second Hexgrave (foaled 1863).

Produce bred by Mr. P. N. FitzGerald.

Note.—In the Steeplechase Calendar for 1880, two horses, New Meadow and Rathcline, both said to be 4 years old, were described as "out of Souvenir," the former being owned by his breeder, Mr. P. N. FitzGerald, and the latter by Mr. Luke White (now Lord Annaly), who bought him from Mr. Joseph Manly, of Castleknock, Co. Dublin. This horse, Rathcline, won the Household Brigade Cup, and other races.

The Calendar for 1883 gives extended pedigrees of these two horses. In the case of Rathcline it states that he was "out of Souvenir by Durham, her dam Souvenir by Paddy Carey," and New Meadow is described as being "out of Souvenir (Rathcline's dam)". It is obvious that these two horses, got by different sires, and apparently the same age, cannot have been out of the same mare, and as Souvenir by Durham ran continuously throughout 1875-76-77, she cannot have produced a foal in 1876, the year that the Calendar states she bred both these horses.

Rathcline has therefore been omitted altogether from these records, on the supposition that the pedigree under which he ran was not a correct one, and New Meadow (having run in the name of his breeder) has been given above as the produce of Souvenir by Paddy Carey.

A similar confusion arose over Wild Meadow, as will be seen from the Steeplechase Calendar of 1883-84 (pages 501 and 552), when two 5-year-old horses are both described as by Haymaker out of Souvenir by Durham. In this instance one of the horses was probably out of Souvenir by Paddy Carey, and the other out of Souvenir by Durham, but it has not been possible to determine it for certain.
